My Tiki Girl Jennifer McMahon,2008-05-15 Maggie was looking for a friend in Dahlia. She never guessed she'd find love, too. All the tenth-grade girls hate Dahlia Wainwright—a smart, natural beauty and freaky outsider all in one. And that's exactly what Maggie Keller is drawn to, for she herself is an outsider, having withdrawn from the high school elite crowd after a car accident that killed her mother—an accident for which she blames herself. But Dahlia's friendship—a manic journey into new identities and outrageous behavior—transforms Maggie in ways she could never have imagined. In her stunning first young adult novel, bestselling adult author Jennifer McMahon paints a lush portrait of the healing power of love.

Life I've Picked John McEuen,2018-04-01 John McEuen is one of the founding members of the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, NGDB. Now 50-years strong, the band is best known for its evergreen bestselling album Will the Circle Be Unbroken and for its gorgeous version of the song Mr. Bojangles. McEuen is one of the seminal figures who conceived and originated the fusion of folk, rock and country, a unique sound still hugely popular today. In addition to performing on tour with the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band and on dozens of bestselling NGDB albums (many of which went platinum and gold), McEuen also has a successful solo performing and recording career. And as a music producer, he won the Grammy Award in 2010 for producing The Crow, a music album by Steve Martin, John's lifelong friend. McEuen writes candidly and movingly about the ups and downs in his life. Among the highs was NGDB's tour of the Soviet Union in 1977; they were the first American group to perform there. Among the downs was the breakup of his family in the 1980s. McEuen is a born storyteller, and his tales of working with everyone from Linda Ronstadt to Willie Nelson to Johnny Cash to the Allman Brothers to Bob Dylan to Dolly Parton to, of course, Steve Martin will thrill every fan of folk, rock, and country music alike.

Wyatt K.C. Falls,2015-09-24 A brothel, an internet cafe and a sushi bar may seem like a bizarre combination. But Elaine Covington made her own rules and a lot of lucky guesses when she created Beau Cafe, the most popular gathering place for geeks east of the Silicon Valley. When the enigmatic guru known only as 'William' came to her looking for a few good 'internet mercenaries', he brought a tetra-byte's of trouble along with him. His genius was impressive and his skill as a fighter was a surprise. He was also the hottest mutha ever to set foot in Elaine's little nerd paradise. Maybe it was because he was an American and she was tired of being a cultural stranger. Maybe it was because he was tall and dark and reminded her of a faded memory. He made her homesick. He made her vulnerable and then he protected her. When he walked through her door, a steamroller of desire followed him. Swept into William's tangled connections with the dark world of human trafficking, Elaine foolishly allows lust to conquer reason until she learns a secret so shocking it turns her world around. The prequel to the series, Brothers is free. Meant for mature readers, this book is five flames in heat and raw language. Darren and Grayson are also available on Google now! Noah and Harlan will follow late in 2015. hot romance, new adult romance, alpha male romance, contemporary romance, Southern romance, new adult, billionaire, alpha male, love story, hot romance, sexy romance, steamy romance, romance novel

Shareable Futures: The Future Reclaimed as a Commons Shareable Magazine,2012-11-07 Introducing Shareable Futures Where our future used to be, we now face a massive debt. The debt is national and measurable. We in America spent two decades buying on credit. We made promises we couldn't keep to buy cars, houses, vacations, and plasma screens we couldn't afford. When we defaulted, the debt shifted upward to a government that had already been putting its wars and occupations on the global equivalent of plastic. The debt is also environmental and abstract. All this crap we bought on credit had to come out of the earth. We've razed forests and eroded soil, over-fished the oceans and depleted fresh water, and turned our bodies and environment into toxic waste dumps. We took oil and coal out of the ground and turned it into smoke that has been trapping heat in the atmosphere. In short, we consumed like there was no tomorrow. And as a result of the economic and environmental crises triggered by our multi-decade spending spree, tomorrow now seems to be shrinking to a little black dot. To state the problem in the starkest, most personal terms: I look at my son and I try to imagine the future in which he will live, and I can't do it. I don't dare. I don't believe that I am unique in feeling this way. Too often, when we now look to the future, we face a "Keep Out!" sign propped up by a combination of our own fear and anxiety. This is another crisis, one that is unfolding on the most intimate and the most public levels. It's a crisis because we need futurity in the same way that we need air, food, and water—other resources threatened by the forces of enclosure. Not just any futurity, but concepts of the future in which tomorrow is in some way better than today. To put it another way: We need to know that our actions in the present will count toward something, will be meaningful. Not just a future for our own damn selves, but for the whole of the planet and humanity. The future belongs to everyone, or it should—and, indeed, the future is much more difficult to enclose than other commons. Anyone can access or use the future, through the power of our imaginations. That's one way of defining "the commons": anything that no one owns but everyone can access and use. The Internet is a commons. So are the oceans and our atmosphere. The radio spectrum is a commons. So are our streets and water delivery systems. All of these things require intention and cooperation to maintain, lest we use them up. In other words, all the commons need people to care about them. They need cultivation. So does the commons we call the future. We don't cultivate the future with shovels or software, the way we might tend other commons. Instead, we cultivate the commons of the future through stories. The future is, in fact, just a collection of stories that we tell each other. The more and the better stories we tell—and the more people we tell them to—the more we strengthen the commons of the future. That's why Shareable.net launched the Shareable Futures series, where some of today's most visionary and accomplished literary futurists imagine futures where technology has changed the rules of ownership and access, and people are able to share transportation, living spaces, lives, dreams, everything and anything. These are futures in which we are surviving and even thriving, largely by learning to share our stuff. The short stories and speculative essays of the Shareable Futures series are ultimately hopeful, but they are not utopian propaganda; our writers come from the perspective that the laws of social thermodynamics are impossible to escape. Instead of utopia, these stories give readers troubles and ambiguities, vividly conceived characters and places, compelling narratives and intelligent speculation. We hope you'll enjoy them, and enjoy them in the context of the other, real-life, here-and-now stories we tell on Shareable.net.

The Best Science Fiction and Fantasy of the Year Jonathan Strahan, 2011-03-01 Strahan's fifth anthology contains 29 wide-ranging tales. Neil Gaiman's The Truth Is a Cave in the Black Mountains is a deceptively simple folktale-styled story of the price one may pay for gold. The Sultan of the Clouds by Geoffrey Landis untangles a complex knot of childish power. Sarah Rees Brennan's The Spy Who Never Grew Up gives a beloved childhood icon a sinister update; Diana Peterfreund's The Care and Feeding of Your Baby Killer Unicorn turns unicorn lore on its head; and Rachel Swirsky's The Lady Who Plucked Red Flowers Beneath the Queen's Window puts a fantasy spin on the temporal culture shock of immortality. This year the fantasy tales outdo the SF in depth of storytelling and characterization, though all the inclusions are strong, with few ideas left by the wayside.

Running a business is not a fairy tale; and certainly it is not like falling in love with Cinderella. The Journal: Martial Law Deborah D. Moore, 2017-01-25 A crumbling country, an emotional reunion, and a rush of violence bring the post-apocalyptic thriller series to a stunning conclusion. John Tiggs, mining engineer and munitions expert, tried to get back to the small town of Moose Creek after the first ash fall from the Yellowstone caldera. Instead, he got picked up during a martial law crackdown and thrown in a labor camp. To free himself, he agrees to work for FEMA for six months helping with their rescue and recovery efforts. It is hard and dangerous work, but John finds it emotionally satisfying, knowing that he is making a difference. Nearly two years later, John is finally on his way home to an unknown reception—he let a lot of people down when he left, and now it's time he made it up to them. Meanwhile, Allegra Smeth, Emergency Manager and reluctant deputy mayor of Moose Creek, has her own problems when a band of rogue militants comes to town and tries to seize control. With Colonel James Andrews missing, Allegra must enlist the help of the nearby military base to save her town from an even bigger threat. "Learning from survival fiction is one of my passions although I do recognize and accept that many of the scenarios are quite extreme. Still, as a prepper that is continually challenged by the pursuit of knowledge, I keep reading and keep playing the 'what if' game in my own mind. One of the best series of books for doing so is Deborah D. Moore's The Journal series." —Backdoor Survival

Anointed Maggie Mae Gallagher, 2014-02-28 My name is Alana Devereaux. I enjoy the simple things in life, walks in the park, sky gazing, and ripping a demon's heart out through its chest. I am a demon slayer, the last of my kind, and I have been sent back through time to save your world. How am I doing so far? My time travel went haywire, all the signs I needed to stop the prophecy have passed, and the only way I can save my world is by keeping yours from ending. Then there's Gaalen, most days I want to deck him. He hides his true motives and if it was not for the intel he had, I would be rid of him. Any day in my life without a demon attack is a good day; I haven't had a whole lot of those lately. The only problem is, if I don't stop the Mutari, this world will burn.

Dream, Dare, Do. (ENG) Conny Vandendriessche,2022-09-14 When lockdown first hit, I felt prompted to go on a world tour... a virtual journey through thirteen stories about dreaming, daring, and doing. My tour guides? Women entrepreneurs and leaders I hadn't met yet. They live and work on four of the world's five inhabited continents. We differ in how old we are, where we come from, and what we do. But there's a surprising amount we have in common: We understand each other's dreams. We all have the courage to dare and to do, despite the barriers - large or small - that our environment throws at us or that we even create ourselves. To encourage dreamers to take action, to let the darers do their thing, and to get the doers dreaming: That's the mission of this book, my mission. THE PROCEEDS FROM THIS BOOK WILL GO TO WOMEN IN TECH, A GLOBAL NONPROFIT INITIATIVE THAT AIMS TO MAKE FIVE MILLION GIRLS AND WOMEN MORE DIGITALLY LITERATE BY 2030.
