An Archaeology of Institutional Confinement Peter Davies,Penny Crook ,Tim Murray,2013-09-29 The archaeological assemblage from the Hyde Park Barracks is one of the largest, most comprehensive and best preserved collections of artefacts from any 19th-century institution in the world. Concealed for up to 160 years in the cavities between floorboards and ceilings, the assemblage is a unique archaeological record of institutional confinement, especially of women. The underfloor assemblage dates to the period 1848 to 1886, during which a female Immigration Depot and a Government Asylum for Infirm and Destitute Women occupied the second and third floors of the Barracks. Over the years the women discarded and swept beneath the floor thousands of clothing and textile fragments, tobacco pipes, religious items, sewing equipment, paper scraps and numerous other objects, many of which rarely occur in typical archaeological deposits. These items are presented in detail in this book, and provide unique insight into the private lives of young female migrants and elderly destitute women, most of whom will never be known from historical records.

It summarises the work of the Legal Records at Risk (LRAR) project and its predecessors, diagnoses the problems of preservation of archives in the legal sector in England and Wales and outlines a national strategy for such records.

Powderburns Celerino Castillo,Dave Harmon,1994 The truth about the remaining dark secret of the Iran-Contra scandal- the United States government's collaboration with drug smugglers. Powderburns is the story of Celerino Castillo III who spent 12 years in the Drug Enforcement Administration. During that time, he built cases against organized drug rings in Manhattan, raided jungle cocaine labs in the Amazon, conducted aerial eradication operations in Guatemala, and assembled and trained anti-narcotics units in several countries. The eerie climax of Agent Castillo's career with the DEA took place in El Salvador. One day, he recieved a cable from a fellow agent. He was told to investigate possible drug smuggling by Nicaraguan Contras operating from the ilpango air force base. Castillo quickly discovered that Contra pilots were, indeed, smuggling narcotics back into the United States - using the same pilots, planes, and hangars that the Central Intelligence Agency and the National Security Council, under the Direction of Lt. Col. Oliver North, used to maintain their covert supply operation to the Contras.

The Background for College Teaching Luella Cole,1940 The author sets out the mission of this book in the foreword: This book does not set forth any theory of education; it does not try to convert anyone to a new faith; it does not contain any panaceas for educational ills; it merely presents the facts in a condensed and synthesized form and leaves the interpretation and application of them to the discretion of the reader. The twenty-five chapters in the book are organized under five subheadings, with the first addressing objectives, curriculum, the population, and the personnel work of the college. Part two discusses the college student as an adolescent, stressing physical and emotional development and its relation to study and learning. Part three synthesizes research that has been done on the problems of classroom teaching at the college level. Parts four and five survey the social and economic aspects of being a college teacher and the evaluation of teaching respectively.
