Integrated Plant Nutrient Management in Sub-Saharan Africa ,2002 Soil degradation and nutrient depletion have become serious threats to agricultural productivity in Africa. Soils cannot supply the quantities of nutrients required and yield levels decline rapidly once cropping commences. This book addresses these issues and includes papers from an international symposium held at Cotonou, Benin, October 9-12, 2000, organized by the International Institute of Tropical Agriculture, Ibadan, Nigeria and the Department of Land Management of the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven, Belgium. In five main parts it marks the end of a first phase of collaborative research on Balanced Nutrient Management Systems for the Moist Savanna and Humid Forest Zones of Africa and concludes with recommendations, providing essential reading for crop and soil scientists.

America Brainwashed! Billie Gorham,2020-09-24 When I was in South Africa, the children in the public schools were singing, Jesus loves me. When I told them that we in America could no longer do that, one of the high school girls asked me two questions: Is that true? and Why did you let it happen? That is what I am wondering as I write this book. How did this happen in America? Why did we allow it to happen? What are we going to do about it?

Understanding the City through its Margins André

Chappatte,Ulrike Freitag,Nora Lafi,2017-07-28 Cities the world over and in particular developing countries suffer from uneven development and inequality. This is often coupled with the view that these inequalities constitute unfortunate anomalies. In contrast, this edited volume draws out the ways in which the city has not been able to exist without its margins, both materially, ideationally, and socially. In this book the margins are, first, the mirrors of the city and, second, a fundamental route through which various centers can legitimate and sustain their power. Contemporary case studies are compared to a number of those from history with the accent on Asia, Africa and the Middle East, and engage with the underlying theoretical questions of what is the urban margin and what is marginality in urban society and spaces?
