Patricia McLinn

Wyoming Barry Gifford, 2011-01-04 A woman and her young son travel by car through the southern and midwestern United States in this heartbreakingly spare novel-in-dialogue. As the mother drives, she and the boy, Roy, trade impressions of the landscape and of life, in the process approaching an understanding of each other and their shared inner landscape. Mom, can we drive to Wyoming? You mean now? Uh-huh. Is it far? Very far. We're almost to Georgia. Can we go someday? Sure, Roy, we'll go. We won't tell anyone, right, Mom? No, baby, nobody will know where we are. And we'll have a dog. I don't see why not. From now on when anything bad happens, I'm going to think about Wyoming. Running with my dog. It's a good thing, baby. Everybody needs Wyoming. —from Wyoming

Wyoming Vision Lisa Shea, A Wyoming blizzard. A crashed car. Haloke's only six years old, but there's no one else. Her father's dead. Her mother's clinging to life. She draws deep within her, to her Arapaho and Navajo roots, to set out to find help. Twenty years later, it's Haloke's younger half-sister, Johona, who desperately needs help. She'd been knocked unconscious and then brutally raped. Johona desperately holds onto the hope that Deputy Logan can find those who are responsible. And maybe - just maybe - her sister would be able to return home from deployment overseas to spend Christmas with the family. The lives of Haloke, Logan, and Johona are entwined by fate, just as are the lives of those on and off the reservation. And the story has just begun ... * * * Wyoming Vision is book one in the Arapaho Vision Quest series. In general, Lisa's novellas are written without explicit intimacy or violence. As such they are suitable for teens and up. That being said, this specific series does center around one young woman's recovery from rape and those who would have concerns reading about that should be alerted. Half of all proceeds from this series benefits battered women's shelters.

The Great Plains John F. Grabowski, Virginia L. Aylesworth, Thomas G. Aylesworth, Patricia A. Grabowski, 1992

Discusses the geographical, historical, and cultural aspects of Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wyoming.

Wyoming Stories Annie Proulx, 2007 Pulitzer Prize-winning author Annie Proulx's mesmerising stories inspired by the harsh and unforgiving landscape of Wyoming are gathered together for the first time in one beautiful and collectable volume. On the heels of last year's mesmerising film adaptation of 'Brokeback Mountain' comes this beautiful, single volume collection of Annie Proulx's celebrated Wyoming stories. Inventive, compassionate and wildly funny, they explore the unbreakable bond between a people and their land in rich and robust language, with an eye for detail unparalleled in American fiction. In 'The Contest', the men of Elk Tooth, Wyoming, vow to put aside their razors for two seasons and wait to see who has the longest beard come the 4th of July. Deb Sipple, the moving protagonist of 'That Trickle Down Effect', finds that his opportunism - and his smoking habit - lead to massive destruction. And 'What Kind of Furniture Would Jesus Pick?' is the story of Gilbert Wolfscale, whose rabid devotion to his ranch drives away his wife and sons. Every story of this stunning collection is a tribute to Proulx's wit, her knowledge of the West, and her profound sympathy for characters who must use sheer will and courage to make it in such unforgiving territory.

Homing Carol Eckhardt, 2016-11-23 In the second of the Bear Valley series, Anna Royer and her daughter Elizabeth abandon successful professional lives to restore the derelict ranch homestead that shaped their early lives. The Spirit of the land, its wild and human residents, and the very live ghosts challenge the idyllic lifestyle they intend to build. The same Spirit moves in the neighboring Kennedy and Adams families as they confront inevitable death and change.

Montana: The Treasure State Krista McLuskey, 2016-08-01 Discover America explores each state, district, and territory in the United States of America. From Alabama to Wyoming, this series features vivid images, informative charts, and detailed maps to guide readers through their nation. Each book explores geography, history, culture, and economics to illustrate the diversity of this unique country.

I would love your input as I'm writing these - it's your suggestions which will help guide the direction the story moves in! If you prefer to read your stories complete, you are welcome to wait until the sequence is complete and then buy the box set. Either way, you support the cause! In the rugged high desert and mountains of Wyoming, she creates a new identity, shaped by the two loves of her life: the beautiful history-laden land and the charismatic man who knows it intimately.

Wyoming Anthony Polizzi, 2011-02 Wyoming wide open spaces, beautiful mountains and waterfalls. But why are these lifelong New Yorkers always talking about it. Beset by old enemies who vow revenge and new challenges from a harsh nature and some locals who don't agree with the newcomers on the future of the region, they move into an uncertain future in the New West, their love stronger than ever.

In Search of Sublet Louis J. Cattera,2003-05-02 In Search of Sublet: A Story of Wyoming is a story of a mans search for an abandoned coal mining town of the early 1900s in the High Plains Desert of southwest Wyoming; the boyhood home of his father, and about the places that were visited and the people that were met along the way. The search and associated travels occurred during three separate journeys within an 11-year period. It is, in part, an ancestral biographical sketch of the authors paternal side of the family, as well as a sentimental journey to discover what remained, if anything, of the site of his fathers boyhood home; a place his father spoke of so often during his lifetime, but never was able to revisit. What began as a curious inquiry into the location of a coal town turned into a quest to unearth the past. The author writes from the heart, but attempts to refrain from being too nostalgic.
