Inwardness and Existence Walter Albert Davis,1989 A profound, challenging, wide-ranging book, back in print for a new generation Inwardness and Existence accomplishes what no book before or after has even approximated: it demonstrates with great lucidity and insight the shared philosophical project that animates psychoanalysis, Marxism, existentialism, and Hegelian dialectics. Davis roots the reader in the enterprise of questioning what is given and probing beyond what is safe in order to demonstrate that psychoanalytic inquiry, Marxist politics, existential reflection, and dialectical connection all move within the same orbit. No one who reads it will ever think about existence itself in the same way again. Davis's landmark work will profoundly transform anyone who reads it.--Todd McGowan, author of The Real Gaze: Film Theory after Lacan

Learner Support in Online Learning Environments Chrysta Pelissier,2019-04-26 We are at a crucial time for the production and dissemination of knowledge – one in which the scientific community is questioning the nature of the digital humanities. Within this context, Learner Support in Online Learning Environments proposes, by taking into consideration the notion of assistance in a learning context, an original method of positioning digital resources for teachers, students and researchers in the humanities and social sciences. Questioning existing theoretical frameworks and prototypes, learner support in digital environments is presented as both a process and a result integrating a variety of resources. Some of these resources already exist, some may be adapted from existing objects and still others have yet to be imagined. The end goal is to facilitate both independent and group-based learning activities.

Handbook of Research on Developing Smart Cities Based on Digital Twins Del Giudice, Matteo,Osello, Anna,2021-01-15 The advent of connected, smart technologies for the built environment may promise a significant value that has to be reached to develop digital city models. At the international level, the role of digital twin is strictly related to massive amounts of data that need to be processed, which proposes several challenges in terms of digital technologies capability, computing, interoperability, simulation, calibration, and representation. In these terms, the development of 3D parametric models as digital twins to evaluate energy assessment of private and public buildings is considered one of the main challenges of the last years. The ability to gather, manage, and communicate contents related to energy saving in buildings for the development of smart cities must be considered a specificity in the age of connection to increase citizen awareness of these fields. The Handbook of Research on Developing Smart Cities Based on Digital Twins contains in-depth research focused on the description of methods, processes, and tools that can be adopted to achieve smart city goals. The book presents a valid medium for disseminating innovative data management methods related to smart city topics. While highlighting topics such as data visualization, a web-based ICT platform, and data-sharing methods, this book is ideally intended for researchers in the building industry, energy, and computer science fields; public administrators; building managers; and energy professionals along with practitioners, stakeholders, researchers, academicians, and students interested in the implementation of smart technologies for the built environment.

Networking the Learner Deryn M. Watson, Jane Andersen, 2013-11-11 Deryn Watson and Jane Andersen Editors INTRODUCTION The role of a Preface is to introduce the nature of the publication. The book that emerges from an IFIP Technical Committee World Conference on Computers in Education is complex, and this complexity lies in the nature of the event from which it emerges. Unlike a number of other major international conferences, those organised within the IFIP education community are active events. A WCCE is unique among major international conferences for the structure that deliberately ensures that all attendees are active participants in the development of the debate. In addition to the major paper presentations and discussion, from international authors, there are panel sessions and professional working groups who debate particular themes throughout the event. There is no doubt that this was not a dry academic conference - teachers, lecturers and experts, policy makers and researchers, learners and manufacturers mingled and worked together to explore, reflect, discuss and plan for the future. The added value of this event was that we know that it will have an impact on future practice; networks will be formed, both virtual and real - ideas will change and new ones will emerge. Capturing the essence of this event is a challenge - this post-conference book has three parts. The first is the substantial number of theme papers.

Toni Morrison's 'Beloved' Justine Tally, 2008-11-18 This work expands the scope of Morrison's project to examine the ways and means of memory in the preservation of belief systems passed down from the earliest civilizations (both the Classical Greek and the Ancient Egyptian) as a challenge to the sterility of modernity. Moreover, this research explores the author's specific use of Foucauldian theory as a vehicle for her narrative, which reclaims the very origins of civilization's primal concerns with life, procreation and regeneration, springing from the very Heart of Africa. Despite the weight of white authority and the disparaging of blackness, Beloved's multiple ghosts conjure up a legacy so potent that no authoritarian discourse has been able to entirely erase it, a legacy that still speaks to us from a heritage we no longer acknowledge yet that nevertheless remains, and sustains us.

Du récit au récit médiatique Marc Lits, 2008-10-13 Cet ouvrage propose une réflexion sur le rôle du récit dans toute société, et jette aussi un regard critique sur les différentes méthodologies d'analyse de ces récits, ainsi que sur leur place dans un système médiatique omniprésent. Pour lire correctement un récit, pour en produire, il est utile de connaître et de maîtriser ses règles d'organisation, depuis ses structures de base jusqu'aux différents éléments qui le constituent - personnages, temporalité, style et rhétorique. Mais un récit ne prend toute sa dimension que lors de sa découverte par le récepteur. Entrent alors en jeu des effets d'ordre sémiotique, esthétique, psychologique ou sociologique. Apprendre à maîtriser les différents codes qui sous-tendent la production et la réception de tout récit, voilà l'objectif de ce volume, qui se veut donc au fondement de toute pratique de lecture, de vision, mais aussi de production. Ces considérations théoriques n'ont de sens que si elles s'inscrivent dans le cadre plus général d'une réflexion sur les rapports entre le récit et la société. Que nous dit un récit de presse de la société dont il est le reflet ? En quoi le récit médiatique, source d'information privilégiée, façonne-t-il aujourd'hui notre vision du monde ? C'est à une découverte critique des principaux outils narratologiques qu'invite cet ouvrage, en l'appliquant principalement aux médias de masse : presse écrite, télévision et Internet.
