Energy Star Canada. Office of Energy Efficiency,2005 This booklet is designed to help office managers and equipment purchasers & users reduce the amount of electricity consumed in Canadian offices without sacrificing equipment functionality, performance, ease of use, or reliability. It begins with information on the ENERGY STAR program that certifies equipment as being energy efficient, and estimates the possible savings in energy costs for a typical office if ENERGY STAR products are used instead of conventional equipment. The main section sets out ENERGY STAR specifications and describes energy efficient aspects of the following types of office equipment: personal computers & monitors, printers, fax machines & scanners, photocopiers, & multi-function devices. The final section contains guidance on the wise use of office equipment to reduce energy consumption.
