Parkinson Norman Parkinson, Martin Harrison, 1998

For more than 50 years, Norman Parkinson was one of Britain's leading exponents of fashion and portrait photography. A reappraisal of his work, this book covers his early ground-breaking fashion work for Harper's Bazaar in the 1930s, his coverage for Vogue in rural wartime England and internationally in the 1950s, his exuberant view of London in the 1960s, through to his later work for Town and Country in the United States, as well as a selection of his many portraits. This retrospective contains both famous and unfamiliar photographs, having been drawn from Parkinson's extensive archive.

The House & Garden Book of Living Rooms Robert

Harling, Leonie Highton, John Bridges, 1991 Study of how living rooms from all over the world have been decorated, providing practical information from choosing lighting to best colors.

Egyptian Diaries Gundula Schulze el Dowy, 1996 It seems a paradox: of all things it is a medium such as photography, one that operates on the surface, with which Gundula Schulze el Dowy penetrates into the depths of space. She enters the inner spaces and learns her lessons from the stones of ancient Egypt. And she forges an astonishing link between past and present by embracing an original concept of photography, by emptying it of interpretation: a ray of light strikes a light-sensitive metal surface; salts separate black from white, light from dark, a color from its complement. An image. In this view of the world out of focus, from a perspective of motion, the tones begin to resonate in the magic of their oppositions.

Sports Peter Kühnst, 1996 This book explores representations of sporting activities, exercise and games in art since the Renaissance. It includes physical activities of all kinds, and features works representing athletes, sports people, speed, the body, and movement.

Kodak Professional Black-and-white Films Eastman Kodak Company, 1998 Thoroughly revised and updated, this classic guide covers all the varieties and uses of Kodak black-and-white films. Full data sheets on each type provide technical information on exposure, developing, spectral sensitivity, and speeds. Sort and handle film properly, and, after the shooting's done, consider stop baths, fixing, push processing, and reversal processing. Examples of black-and-white photos throughout demonstrate different effects. Bonus: a film guide for matching the right film with the right job.

The Natural Garden Kenneth Druse, 1989 A fresh new design movement in American gardening is introduced in this lavish & lushly illustrated book. Ken Druse, gardening editor of House Beautiful, tells and shows, with more than 400 gorgeous full-color photographs, how to create a garden that practically takes care of itself. The smartest thing in gardens now is the Natural Garden--a landscape planted in harmony with nature that appears spontaneous, unstructured, and intentionally innocent. Taking inspiration for the environment--even from potential problems such as rock outcrops, wild trees, or steep slopes--and using native plants, wildflowers, and hardy perennials, natural gardeners have created colorful gardens that require a minimum of attention. The spectacular full-color photographs present a beautiful seaside garden California chaparral, an English cottage garden (on Long Island), and many others, both small and large, in urban, suburban, or country settings all over the United States. There are 12 chapters covering everything from perennials & vines to water plants & permanent elements such as benches, pools, & garden paths. A complete directory provides sources for plants, seeds, tools, publications, where to write for help, & outdoor furniture. This is the perfect book to inspire novice or seasoned gardeners toward a backyard with a fresh new look. Ken Druse is an award-winning garden writer & photographer. Former editor of Garden Design magazine, he is now gardening editor at House Beautiful.

Five for Five Terry McMillan, 1991 A critical and interpretive tribute to the work of film maker Spike Lee. Essays by African-American writers - Terry McMillan, Toni Cade Bambara, Nelson George, Charles Johnson, Henry Louis Gates, Jr and Melvin Van Peebles - accompany production stills taken by David Lee.

Mexicolor , 1998-09-01 Basking in sunlight and coursing with energy, Mexico enjoys a unique relationship with color-inspired, intrinsic, inseparable from life itself. This vibrance sings forth in the pages of Mexicolor, the collaborative project of an artist, a photographer, and a writer all in love with the brilliant displays of color seen everywhere in Mexico. Walls washed flamingo pink on top, deep matte blue on the bottom. A green flatbed truck heaped with orange marigolds. A sea of colorful skeletons at a Day of the Dead fiesta. The radiant reds, yellows, purples, and greens of the fruits and vegetables at el mercado. Mexicolor explores Mexico high and low, from colonial towns to dazzling beaches, from traditional workshops to contemporary interiors, from open markets to extraordinary homes and inns, uncovering the colorful artistry that permeates everyday life across this vast nation. Mexicolor is an ideal resource for anyone looking to brighten a home, and a beautiful picture book brimming with imagination, creative ideas, and pure pleasure.
