Robert Neill

Negro President Garry Wills,2005 In 1800 Thomas Jefferson won the presidential election with Electoral College votes derived from the three- fths representation of slaves -- slaves who could not vote but were still partially counted as citizens. Moving beyond the recent revisionist debate over Jeffersons own slaves and his relationship with Sally Hemings, Garry Wills instead probes the heart of Jeffersons presidency and political life, revealing how the might of the slave states remained a concern behind his most important policies and decisions. Jeffersons foil was Thomas Pickering, who along with the Federalists fought the president and the institutions that supported him. In an eye-opening, ingeniously argued expose, Wills restores Pickering and his allies dramatic struggle to our understanding of Jefferson, the creation of the new nation, and the evolution of our representative democracy.

Black William Robert Neill,1955 This novel is set in 1714 in October and November with November 5 being the coronation of George I, the first Hannover King. Mally lives with her aunt, Lady Chandler, who is a Jacobite, and her husband, Sir John Chandler, Whig, merchant and King's man. A Captain Marriott, who is to snare people to the Jacobite cause through cards, becomes interested in Mally, who appears to reciprocate his feelings to the point where he results to fisticuffs to rescue her from unwanted advances from a Mr. Willoughby. Captain Marriott is disgraced and Mally is shipped to the north to stay with a Lady Chandler's brother, John Lawley. The times are a bit uneasy and Mally, along with her cousin, Jane, uncover a Jacobite plot that involves their Uncle John Lawley. William Chandler, Sir John Chandler's brother, is a government man, who prospers from his business and keeps an eye on Mally. With plots, and romance (William has a son, Richard known as Dick, who also takes an interest in Mally), coal pits, etc., this makes for a very good read. There are wonderful descriptions of food (such as a sauce made of brains and lemon and spices), the area around Newcastke, the Hostmen, the straiths, coal pits, the landscape, an old Roman wall, and more that bring a vivid sense of time, place and history.--Goodreads

Nero S J Tilly,2023-03-13 Payton Running away from home at 17 wasn't easy. Let's face it though, nothing before, or in the ten years since, has ever been easy for me. And I'm doing okay. Sorta. I just need to keep scraping by, living under the radar. Staying out of people's way, off people's minds. So when a man walks through my open patio door, stepping boldly into my home, and my life, I should be scared. Frightened. Terrified. But I must be more broken than I realized, because I'm none of those things. I'm intrigued. And I'm wondering if the way to take control of my life is by giving in to him. Nero The first time I took a man's life, I knew there'd be no going back. No normal existence in the cards for me. So instead of walking away, I climbed a mountain of bodies, and created my own destiny. By forming The Alliance. And I was fine with that. Content enough to carry on. Until I stepped through those open doors, and into her life. I should've walked away. Should've gone right back out the door I came through. But I didn't. And now her life is in danger. But that's the thing about being a bad man. I'll happily paint the streets red to protect what's mine. And Payton is mine. Whether she knows it or not.
