The Transitioning Military Cybersecurity Professional Sandy Cobb, Jay Hicks, Ray Letteer, 2017-06-12 The Transitioning Military Cybersecurity Professional is designed to help transitioning military personnel evaluate and understand their potential for transforming themselves into a marketable commodity within the public and private sectors as cybersecurity employees and managers. The book provides guidance for the translation of military experience to the commercial cybersecurity world. Veterans gain insight of their personal military experience, understand the value of their learned knowledge and confidently approach their transition into the civilian marketplace as IT professionals through application of their learned and inherent skills. Transitional knowledge is codified through the use of authoritative sources, IT certifying organizations, Defense Acquisition University (DAU) and other veterans who have successfully transitioned into the cybersecurity career field. This book provides a method for personal change and surviving the transition from the service into the civil service or commercial sectors. In addition to authoritative cybersecurity management information, The Transitioning Cybersecurity Professional also contains real-world success stories, self-evaluation, personal assessments and Personal Strategic Roadmap development. Insight is provided for those seeking the most satisfying job beyond their military career, while simultaneously giving guidance for the newcomer to the commercial environment and associated challenges. This book is for everyone transitioning from the military, considering cybersecurity as their occupation after the service.

DOD INFOSEC Education, Training, Awareness & Products (ETA & P). ,1998 This DISA briefing outlines the full set of DOD INFOSEC education, training, awareness and products available to the field. It documents DISA location in the information infrastructure, the DoD missions and functions, the customers, approach, and key working groups and forums. It also identifies the training facility, and the course that are offered by area and by job function. It also describes the current training products and other educational opportunities and schools.

Retaining the Army's Cyber Expertise Jennie W. Wenger, Caolionn O'Connell, Maria C. Lytell,2017 In 2014, the Army established the Cyber career field as a basic branch, which includes the 17C military occupational specialty for enlisted cyber operations specialists. These soldiers require extensive training, and Army leadership is concerned that they will be lured away by lucrative jobs in the civilian labor market. This report describes findings that will help inform the Army's strategy for retaining these 17C soldiers. Our findings indicate that soldiers who qualify for 17C are more likely than others to remain in the Army through their first term; however, they also appear to be somewhat less likely to reenlist. In the civilian sector, information security analysts perform similar duties to 17Cs in the Army, and many information security analysts are veterans. Given that, 17C soldiers who do not reenlist may pursue civilian careers as information security analysts. Although information security analysts have higher wages than many other workers in the American workforce, projected earnings for information security analysts with characteristics similar to those of enlisted soldiers are comparable with military pay. However, the data indicate that the median pay for information security analysts with a college degree is considerably higher than Army enlisted compensation. It is important to note that our analysis focused on the actual wages of information security personnel, not the perceived wages. Retention efforts may be seriously hampered by the perceptions young enlisted soldiers might have regarding their civilian opportunities outside the Army. Therefore, managing this new occupation will require attention.--Publisher's description.

DoD Personnel Security Program Department of Department of Defense, 2018-01-05 DoDI 5200.02, implements policy, assigns responsibilities, and provides procedures for the DoD Personnel Security Program (PSP). DoDI 5200.02 assigns responsibilities and prescribes procedures for investigations of individuals seeking to hold national security positions or perform national security duties who are required to complete Standard Form (SF) 86, Questionnaire for National Security Positions, for personnel security investigations (PSIs). It also sets procedures for DoD PSP national security eligibility for access determinations; personnel security actions; continuous evaluation (CE); and security education requirements for employees seeking eligibility for access to classified information or to hold a sensitive position (referred to as national security eligibility). Why buy a book you can download for free? We print this book so you don't have to. First you gotta find a good clean (legible) copy and make sure it's the latest version (not always easy). Some documents found on the web are missing some pages or the image quality is so poor, they are difficult to read. We look over each document carefully and replace poor quality images by going back to the original source document. We proof each document to make sure it's all there - including all changes. If you find a good copy, you could print it using a network printer you share with 100 other people (typically its either out of paper or toner). If it's just a 10-page document, no problem, but if it's 250-pages, you will need to punch 3 holes in all those pages and put it in a 3-ring binder. Takes at least an hour. It's much more cost-effective to just order the latest version from Amazon.com This book includes original commentary which is copyright material. Note that government documents are in the public domain. We print these large documents as a service so you don't have to. The books are compact, tightly-bound, full-size (8 1/2 by 11 inches), with large text and glossy covers. 4th Watch Publishing Co. is a Service Disabled Veteran-Owned Small Business (SDVOSB).
