Derechos humanos, Protección medioambiental y nuevos retos sociales Garriga Domínguez, Ana, Sánchez Bravo, Álvaro, 2015-04-22 Una de las mayores inquietudes sociales de nuestro tiempo es la que surge en relación con la degradación de medioambiental de nuestro planeta. A la inquietud difusa que provoca el cambio climático hay que sumar la de sus manifestaciones más evidentes, con sequías cada vez más graves en diversos lugares y distantes países o mayores y más devastadores fenómenos meteorológicos, como huracanes o inundaciones. Todos estos fenómenos influyen en la vida de los seres humanos y afectan directamente a su calidad de vida y bienestar e inciden en el disfrute efectivo de sus derechos fundamentales. En este contexto, investigadores de varias universidades españolas y brasileñas, desde su propio contexto geográfico, cultural y académico, abordan, ya sea desde su relación con los derechos humanos, ya sea desde la adopción de políticas públicas que lo favorezcan, la necesaria protección medioambiental y la búsqueda de un desarrollo económico sostenible. Se abordan, por tanto, cuestiones relativas a la relación entre medioambiente y derechos fundamentales, pero también aquellas que tienen que ver con el desarrollo rural, o las políticas económica, energética o urbanística y el desarrollo sostenible. La mayoría de los trabajos reunidos en este libro fueron presentados en Congresso Internacional Os Desafios da Sustentabilidade e dos Direitos Humanos no Século XXI celebrado en la Universidade de Santa Cruz do Sul – UNISC y en el VII Simpósio de Estudos Jurídicos realizado en la Universidade Regional Integrada do Alto Uruguai e das Missões – URI, en los meses de mayo y junio de 2014.

Vector-Borne Diseases Institute of Medicine, Board on Global Health, Forum on Microbial Threats, 2008-03-18 Vector-borne infectious diseases, such as malaria, dengue fever, yellow fever, and plague, cause a significant fraction of the global infectious disease burden; indeed, nearly half of the world's population is infected with at least one type of vector-borne pathogen (CIESIN, 2007; WHO, 2004a). Vector-borne plant and animal diseases, including several newly recognized pathogens, reduce agricultural productivity and disrupt ecosystems throughout the world. These diseases profoundly restrict socioeconomic status and development in countries with the highest rates of infection, many of which are located in the tropics and subtropics. Although this workshop summary provides an account of the individual presentations, it also reflects an important aspect of the Forum philosophy. The workshop functions as a dialogue among representatives from different sectors and allows them to present their beliefs about which areas may merit further attention. These proceedings summarize only the statements of participants in the workshop and are not intended to be an exhaustive exploration of the subject matter or a representation of consensus evaluation. Vector-Borne Diseases : Understanding the Environmental, Human Health, and Ecological Connections, Workshop Summary (Forum on Microbial Threats) summarizes this workshop.
