Biobanks and Tissue Research Christian Lenk, Judit Sándor, Bert Gordijn, 2011-07-30 The research field of biobanks and tissue research is highly promising. Many projects around the globe are involved in the collection of human tissue and health data for research purposes. These initiatives are driven by the perspective of decisive breakthroughs in the knowledge of the genetic pathways involved in widespread diseases. However, there are considerable ethical and legal challenges to be considered as well. These challenges encompass the use of body material for research purposes, the misuse of genetic and other health data by third parties, trust in science and medicine, concerns regarding privacy, use of genetic data for forensic applications by the state and the police, and regulatory issues. This volume is divided into three parts: the inclusion of the public, the rights of donors and patients, examples and recommendations for the future of tissue research. It presents a comprehensive overview of the most important topics in the field by renowned scholars in medical ethics and biolaw.

Keeping Track Jeannie Oakes, 2005-05-10 Selected by the American School Board Journal as a "Must Read" book when it was first published and named one of 60 "Books of the Century" by the University of South Carolina Museum of Education for its influence on American education, this provocative, carefully documented work shows how tracking—the system of grouping students for instruction on the basis of ability—reflects the class and racial inequalities of American society and helps to perpetuate them. For this new edition, Jeannie Oakes has added a new Preface and a new final chapter in which she discusses the "tracking wars" of the last twenty years, wars in which Keeping Track has played a central role. From reviews of the first edition: "Should be read by anyone who wishes to improve schools."—M. Donald Thomas, American School Board Journal "[This] engaging [book] . . . has had an influence on educational thought and policy that few works of social science ever achieve."—Tom Loveless in The Tracking Wars "Should be read by teachers, administrators, school board members, and parents."—Georgia Lewis, Childhood Education "Valuable. . . . No one interested in the topic can afford not to attend to it."—Kenneth A. Strike, Teachers College Record

Most books examining how careers go off track deal with abstract concepts and focus only on top executives. This book defines 99 potentially career-ending pitfalls, illustrated with real-world examples, and offers specific advice to employees at all levels in business, nonprofit, military, government and other organizations. Topics include the consequences of power and pleasing, the illusion of immunity, meeting behavior, corrective feedback, ineffective image, nonverbal behavior, self-serving analysis and the perception of management as a science. Perspectives are provided on avoiding the indirect hazards of working with superiors or subordinates who may be on the path to derailment. A reader self-assessment is included.

The Museum Educator's Manual Anna Johnson, Kimberly A. Huber, Nancy Cutler, Melissa Bingmann, Tim Grove, 2017-08-09 The Museum Educator's Manual addresses the role museum educators play in today's museums from an experience-based perspective. Seasoned museum educators author each chapter, emphasizing key programs along with case studies that provide successful examples, and demonstrate a practical foundation for the daily operations of a museum education department, no matter how small. The book covers: volunteer and docent management and training; exhibit development; program and event design and implementation; working with families, seniors, and teens; collaborating with schools and other institutions; and funding. This second edition interweaves technology into every aspect of the manual and includes two entirely new chapters, one on Museums - An Educational Resource for Schools and another on Active Learning in Museums. With invaluable checklists, schedules, organizational charts, program examples, and other how-to documents included throughout, The Museum Educator's Manual is a 'must have' book for any museum educator.

The Elephant in the Church Prof. Jeanne Stevenson-Moessner, Mary Lynn Dell, 2013-06-01 A church can be a dangerous place. The perils may be so obvious, they become “elephants” standing in the fellowship hall, lurking in the sanctuary, ready to spring into the pastor’s study, and tromp out of the choir room. The word “elephant” stands for an obvious truth or issue that is ignored or unnamed—a blind spot. Yet we allow elephants to occupy a large amount of space in the minds and hearts of those that tiptoe around them. Discussing common blind-spots of congregations and church leaders, the authors provide examples and illustrations for how to stop these elephants from ruining a ministry.

Keeping Track Anne E. Green, Malcolm J. Maguire, Angela Canny, 2001 In the context of policy concerns regarding social exclusion, a range of agencies has collected information on, and delivered services for, 'vulnerable' young people. Technological developments enhance possibilities of linking information from different sources to 'map' and 'track' young people as they move between agencies and their activity status changes. This report outlines some of the advantages and limitations of 'mapping' and 'tracking' methodologies. It identifies examples of good practice and difficulties which agencies have encountered in building reliable, accurate, up-to-date and robust systems. Particular attention is paid to issues relating to resources, partnership working, data protection and information technology. Keeping track: traces the changing nature of youth transitions; explores the concepts of 'mapping' and 'tracking'; outlines the results of a survey of activities of careers service companies; presents pen portraits of a number of local tracking projects and discusses key issues emerging.- vbTab] This report is important reading for policy makers, practitioners and researchers concerned with social exclusion and the delivery of services to young people. It is of particular relevance to those working in careers services, local authorities, the voluntary sector and others engaging in partnership at local level.
